PRINCIPLE 6: The governing body should serve as the focal point and custodian of corporate governance in the organisation. The board exercises its leadership and oversight role by annually approving the strategy and the business plan and overseeing implementation. Accountability for Media24's performance is ensured by its financial reporting, together with disclosure of general and investor information on the corporate website, www.media24.com, and www.welkomyizani.co.za (still available to previous investors). Pursuant to the delisting of Welkom Yizani Investments (RF) Proprietary Limited from the Equity Express Securities Exchange on 2 March 2021, Media24 published its final integrated annual report in 2020. The board's role, responsibilities, membership requirements and procedural conduct are documented in its charter, which it regularly reviews to guide its effective functioning. The composition of the board (including non-executive board member rotation) is reviewed annually by the nominations committee, which makes recommendations to the board. The board promotes diversity in its membership and considers its composition holistically, taking into account all aspects of diversity (including gender and race) in terms of its diversity policy, and capitalising on differences in the skills, geographical and industry experience of its members. The chief executive and chief financial officer are required to be board members. Omichand Lalbahadur was appointed as the Media24 group chief financial officer and director responsible for the finance function on 1 May 2023. In the event of the chair being unable to perform her duties or being conflicted, the lead independent director takes over as an interim measure until a new candidate has been determined or the chair is able to resume her responsibilities. PRINCIPLE 8: The governing body should ensure that its arrangements for delegation within its own structures promote independent judgement and assist with balance of power and the effective discharge of its duties. The board's standing project, audit, risk, human resources and remuneration, nominations and new share transfer committees fulfil key roles in ensuring good corporate governance. In determining responsibilities delegated to committees, the board was guided by legal and regulatory requirements, the recommendation of King IV™ and what is appropriate for Media24. Charters are approved by the board for all committees and reviewed annually. Committee charters deal with composition, roles and responsibilities, delegated authority, meeting procedures, the right to obtain professional advice, and performance evaluation arrangements. All committee members are board members. Committees report to the board at each scheduled board meeting. There is overlapping membership between all committees for more effective functioning. Delegating responsibilities does not discharge the board's accountability, and the board's collective mind is applied to information, opinions, recommendations, reports and statements presented to it. Members of the executive and senior management are invited to committee meetings to provide information and insights into their areas of responsibility. Any board member is entitled to attend any committee meeting as an observer, subject to agreement by the chair of that committee. However, they do not have a vote and are not entitled to fees for attendance. The audit committee has the power to make decisions on its statutory duties and is accountable for its performance in this regard. The board is ultimately accountable for other responsibilities delegated to the audit committee. The external audit partner and head of internal audit have unrestricted access to the chair of the audit committee, which meets separately with auditors twice a year.	Applicable policies and governance elements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Board charter • Committee charters.

The board performs an annual formal in-house self-assessment of its own effectiveness, as well as that of its committees, individual members and its chair. PRINCIPLE 11: The governing body should govern risk in a way that supports the organisation in setting and achieving strategic objectives. The board approves Media24's risk management policy, which is reviewed annually. Responsibility for managing risks and opportunities is shared by all the group's decision-makers, from the Media24 board to group chief executives and general managers through to other management with delegated responsibilities. Opportunities are identified and reported through various governance structures as part of the oversight process. Risks and opportunities are considered in setting strategy and discussing the annual business plan and budget. Executive management is responsible for identifying, managing and reporting risk. The group's risk framework, register and heatmap drive the reporting process to ensure key objectives are identified and associated risks are considered, assessed and reported. The board treats risk as integral to its decisions and in executing its duties, and evaluates and determines the nature and extent of risk Media24 is willing to take in pursuing its strategic objectives. Media24 has a number of key risks that are not easily quantifiable. As a group, it does not actively consider risk-bearing capacity (in a technical sense) in making strategic decisions, but Media24 ensures it remains within covenants agreed with its debt providers. Media24 has adequate insurance programmes to mitigate the risk of sudden losses caused by the materialisation of insurable risks. The risk committee assists the board in its risk oversight role. The risk register reported to the risk committee details mitigating management actions as appropriate in response to risks. Business continuity is considered a key risk in the group and is managed accordingly. Naspers risk and audit provides assurance annually on the effectiveness of the risk management processes across the group.	Applicable policies and governance elements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Board charter • Risk committee charter • Risk management policy.

Business resilience is a key objective of the cybersecurity policy, which addresses, monitors and responds to cyber-incidents. The capability of Media24 to respond to disruption is in scope for Naspers risk and audit. Compliance with relevant laws and ethical and responsible use of I&T are addressed through our new code of business ethics and conduct and ethics and compliance and data privacy programmes and Media24 data privacy governance policy. Data privacy is a high priority for Media24. A Media24 records management policy in respect of the retention of personal data was reviewed and approved by the Media24 board in FY23. This policy is supplemented by the Data Retention and Destruction Charter. The Media24 data privacy programme is managed centrally and provides oversight. This includes a centrally managed incident response plan and process. The group chief executive designated key leaders with responsibility for data privacy within the group under his leadership, together with the group company secretary that has been appointed as the information officer. Naspers risk and audit provides assurance to management, the risk committee and board on the effectiveness of I&T governance, based on detailed controls to manage identified risks and reduce vulnerability.
